

MUJDE

McGill Undergraduate Journal of Development Economics

Call for Graduate Supervisors

2007

The McGill Undergraduate Journal of Development Economics is seeking graduate students to supervise its upcoming issue.

We need economics graduate students with knowledge in the field of development economics to assist our editors. By offering to supervise, you would be making yourself available to our editors for questions regarding the content of submissions which they might find uncertain or questionable.

The time commitment would not be very large, especially if several graduate students volunteer.

If you are be interested in supervising please contact us at mujde.contact@gmail.com

The call for supervisors is on-going, there are no deadlines.